

“Living Peace, Building Peace”

A Virtual Interfaith, Interdisciplinary Gathering

September 24-26, 2021

One Planet Peace Forum (OPPF) is presenting a free virtual gathering designed to cultivate a culture of peace. Hosted on Zoom the weekend following International Day of Peace (Sept. 21), this event allows peacebuilders everywhere to have focused time with world-renowned peace ambassadors offering their visions for a peaceful future. <http://oneplanetpeaceforum.org>

Sponsored by the Abbey of Hope, an interfaith Cooperation Circle of United Religions Initiative (URI) and funded by grants from URI and the Maine Humanities Council, One Planet Peace Forum is co-produced by Good of the Whole, a URI Cooperation Circle, and the Connection Field. Emcee Julie Krull, founder of Good of the Whole and host of All Things Connected, will be our guide for the weekend’s events.

OPPF was created as an annual event to offer a universal platform for people of all spiritual and secular expressions to co-create solutions to humanity’s most challenging issues.

With a holistic approach to peace making, OPPF follows upon the peace movement, nuclear disarmament, civil rights, and social, racial, economic, and environmental justice, all of which are critical components of and stepping-stones toward world peace. Within this inclusive framework, OPPF invites people from all backgrounds to gather to reflect on how we can build bridges that will unite the human family.

FRIENDS FOREVER INTERNATIONAL

One Planet Peace Forum is committed to bringing people of all backgrounds together to experience unity in diversity and take action steps that cultivate harmony and peace across traditions. OPPF shares the perspective of the Parliament of the World's Religions, as stated in their Declaration, A Global Ethic, "We consider humankind our family... We commit ourselves to a culture of non-violence, justice, and peace... to make a just and peaceful world, we must first change the consciousness of individuals..."
